

MR. HADDEN HEARD SERVANTS' Gossip About Hostess.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Mr. Hadden, secretary for war, has been telling his friends an amusing story against himself. Mr. Hadden has the appearance of a rather elderly man and he is altogether conscious of it.

The other day he was the principal guest at a big country house party. On arriving at the country house he had some difficulty in finding his luggage with the result that the carriage sent to meet him was driven away, the coachman thinking Mr. Hadden had not arrived.

On the platform were two smart ladies, Mr. Hadden in his innocence asked them if there was a cab to be got. The ladies at once replied, "Yes, we'll all go together." On the way to the house one of the ladies confided to Mr. Hadden that the hostess was notoriously mean and starved all her guests and her servants.

"In fact," she added, "my misadventure never have come again only she has a son who wants a job, and she heard old Hadden was going to stop the week end."

As he tried to step out of the cab, however, one of the ladies stopped him with, "No, you don't. You've got to share the fare of this cab." It was only in the evening that the ladies discovered their mistake.

PEOPLE'S PEOPLE A TREASURE HUNT After Owner's Death Was Found to Contain $850.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Feb. 7.—The heirs of an old peddler, known as "Bon Ami" Pondy, who died six months ago, have recovered his life savings in a most unusual manner. After hunting everywhere the cash, amounting to $850, was discovered in the old man's wooden leg.

When "Bon Ami" died some cousins appeared and demanded his "estate." After proving relationship the few belongings were turned over to them and they began a systematic search for supposed wealth. Although in their effort to discover the treasure the heirs tore up the boards in the floor of the lodging house where "Bon Ami" lived, they found nothing and were out both time and money.

No purchase could be found for a second-hand wooden leg, so it was given to an old friend of Pondy, who said it was better than the one he was wearing. This man, whose name is Andrew Ross, found the appendage a bit too long and decided to cut it to fit.

Under the raw the fact was disclosed that the leg was hollow from the top to the ferrule, and that it was stuffed with something soft. This aroused his suspicions, and, ripping the leg open, he found therein the treasure.

Ross returned the money to the delighted heirs and received for his honesty a $3 bill.

PEOPLES PEOPLE REVEALS THE AREA OF RACE SUICIDE

Chicago Man Has So Many Children He Forgets Number.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—A practical believer in President Roosevelt's doctrine against race suicide was found in Christopher Schaefer, who testified in Municipal Judge Gammon's court that he had "about forty" children.

When asked the exact number, he said he could not count them, as he did not remember the names of all. Schaefer said he was fifty-five years old, and had been married four times, and that two of his wives had been widows with children of their own.

"Most of my children have been married off and I don't remember how many of them there are," said he.

Schaefer sued the Chicago City Railway Company for damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by him while alighting from a car near his residence, 519 Bishop avenue. He testified that prior to that time he never suffered from rheumatism and said he was not a drinker.

Two of his "forty" children, Mrs. Mary Kinkaid and Matilda Schaefer, contradicted their father's testimony. They said he had been suffering from rheumatism for twenty years, and that he was in the habit of drinking large quantities of liquor.

The jury returned a verdict in favor of the traction company.

FRANK JAMES REFORMED, BUYS OKLAHOMA LAND

Frank James has now become a farmer. Years ago he and his brother, Jesse James, were in the limelight as the most successful hold-up train robbers that ever drew a gun. After the killing of Jesse, Frank James made peace with the law and reformed. He is a good citizen now. Yesterday his bid for the southeast quarter of 35-5 south, 19 west, on what was formerly the Comanche reservation in Oklahoma was paid $2,777 for the land.

TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL REVISED PLANS HERE

Engineer Commissioner Bidde has received revised plans and specifications from the architects, Frank Miles Day & Bros., of Philadelphia, for the new tuberculosis hospital to be located on the 25-acre tract of ground at the main entrance of the Soldiers' Home, which was a part of the old Saul tract.

Bidde has been advertised for to be opened at the Engineer Commissioner's office in the District Building on February 23.

SWINDLER SOLD BOOTS OF CZAR

Trusting Russian Peasants Bought Tokens of Little Father.

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—Herman Zelin, a German Jew, has been sentenced by a Russian court of justice to two years' imprisonment for swindling innocent Russian country folk.

Zelin appeared in village after village in Novgorod government with a pair of old boots swung across his shoulders. Summoning the village council, he informed the members that the dilapidated boots belonged to the Czar.

The Czar, he said, had several hundred pairs of old boots and had requested that they be sold for the benefit of the famine-stricken peasants of the Volga provinces.

"The village council of Mikhailovo decided to buy the boots and hang them up in the public school as a token of the Little Father's love of his people, and paid forty rubles, all the money in the village treasury for them."

Encouraged by his success, Zelin distributed of seven more pairs of the Czar's boots in seven more villages before he was arrested.
